

SEMI-WEEKLY INTERIOR JOURNAL.

VOL. XIX.

STANFORD, KY., FRIDAY, JULY 17, 1891.

NO. 39

LONDON, LAUREL COUNTY.

—"Black" Ed Chesnut got drunk Monday and did as usual when he gets that way. He spent Monday night in jail and $2.50 next morning.

—The London Manufacturing Co. is now burning a mammoth brick kiln and will be ready to supply the earth with that material after next week.

—"Rosey" Will Hackney gave an entertainment to his friends at Mrs. Richard Ward's Friday night, which was attended by young folks in general, and W. P. Baker in particular, and a happy time they had too.

—In a drunken row Sunday, near the Clay county line, Jim Stewart was killed by one Chadwell, while several other parties were wounded. Reports are so conflicting that it is impossible to give a detailed account or to learn of any other cause of the trouble. Bad Rudder and two other parties run moonshine saloons at that place, and the trouble is said to have taken place in Clay county.

—Hon. John Young Brown will speak at the court-house in London on next Wednesday, the 22nd. The chairman of the democratic county committee, R. M. Jackson, has advertised the announcement all over the county, and a good, big rousing crowd of enthusiastic democrats will certainly be present to hear that admired and matchless orator. A committee has been appointed to arrange for his reception and entertainment, and the next governor of Kentucky (if a wheel don't break) will be met with "flying banners and sounding horns."

—Craig Gragg, who is charged with breaking in Pittsburg depot, made a desperate attempt to escape Tuesday evening. Deputy Jailer John B. Chesnut took him out to help carry some sloop buckets at his request, and on his return to jail he dropped the buckets and made a break for liberty. Chesnut fired five shots at him at close range, one bullet going through his trouser legs. Several took up the chase and Edward Parker fired at him several times, when Gragg sprained his ankle and crawled under the London Mfg. Co.'s plowing mill, where he was captured.

—There was a very large crowd in Monday at county court, much larger than for some time. Major Freeman, editor of the Barbourville News, and Hon. W. R. Ramsey spoke in favor of the new constitution, while Hons. R. Boyd, E. K. Wilson and J. A. Craft spoke against it. I did not get to hear the speakers, but it is generally conceded that all did the subject justice and with credit to themselves. The Hons. R. L. Ewell, W. R. Ramsey, P. F. Stillings and others will address the citizens of Laurel county in favor of the new constitution, at the following times and places: Lily, 7:30 p. m., July 18, Pointer's School-house; 20, N. J. Stanberry's, 21, Camp Ground, 22, Bush's Store, 23, McWhorter, 24, Altamont, 25, Pittsburg, 26, Dillon, 29, Hazel Patch, 30, Bernstadt, 31, East Bernstadt, August 1. The opponents of the constitution are invited to be present and will undoubtedly be there.

—Mr. R. C. Ford is reported convalescent, the fever having left him. Mr. Walker Brown is down with a case of typhoid and in a bad fix. James P. Wren, who has recently returned from the Masonic Home school, in whose charge he had been for four years, now has a position in W. H. Jackson & Co.'s drug store. Dr. Joe Young has returned from his Western tour in the mail business. Mrs. S. A. Lovelace is just back from a visit to Manchester. Miss Jessie Magee is also home again, after an extended visit to Harrodsburg. Mr. J. T. Williams is at Jellico. Dan Pitman has bought out the firm of Johnson & Jones at the depot, and will proceed to run the business at the same stand. Tom Jim Ballard, of Rockcastle, was in London last Tuesday, feeling of his prospects for a legislative candidacy on the democratic side. Some good democrat ought to tackle Republican Joplin and Farmers Alliance-Knights of Labor Fagan.

The Mountains Almost Solid Against It.
(To the Editor Interior Journal.)
GOCHLAND, Rockcastle Co., July 14.—You straight fight against the proposed constitution is meeting with hearty approval by our people, notwithstanding some of the big guns shut up shops and quit doing business at the old stand. In our county we have a special law that the poll-tax can be $1 and no more. The adoption of the constitution makes it $1.50 and adds to every poll-tax payer in the county 50 cents and takes it off of property. I am pretty certain that the mountain counties will vote nearly solid against the adoption without a wonderful change between now and election. If the measure is saddled upon the county the Blue-Grass counties will do it.
W. D. McGee.

—New York stockholders of the Monon railroad have sued the Standford estate for $550,000, the value of stock which it is alleged Dr. Standford appropriated to his own use for negotiating the deal consolidating the Monon and Indianapolis and Chicago Air Line.

MT. VERNON, ROCKCASTLE COUNTY.

—But little sickness in the county.

—Prof. L. V. Dodge is advertised to speak here to-day.

—The K. of L. will have a big picnic at Pine Hill to-morrow.

—Mr. Kinger is clearing away for the foundations of his lime-kilns.

—The new coal company at Livingston will probably get to work inside of two weeks.

—Masters Claude Cox, Lytle and Jack Adams carried off the honors at the S. S. entertainment.

—Work on the Livingston yards will begin soon. A round-house will likely be erected also.

—The railroad carpenters are here building new platforms and setting the depot back from the track.

—Hons. W. B. Smith and A. R. Burman will speak here to-morrow. A good crowd should be in attendance.

—Mr. J. W. Stephens has been appointed agent at Livingston, and Mr. James Bailey succeeds him as night operator.

—Cooks, the first station east of Mt. Vernon, formerly known as Pleasant Valley, has had its name changed to that of "Cove."

—Mr. W. L. DeGraff, our clever jeweler, has a watch of his own make which is valued at $150. It is the finest piece of workmanship we have seen for years.

—Mrs. S. W. Paris is visiting Garrard relatives. Sam McClure has named his boy Pleasant Shadock Dawson. Mrs. M. J. Miller and son, M. C., are visiting Lancaster.

—The young people here had a good time Tuesday night in the way of a party of yv olden time. The verdant rusticity displayed in the get up of some of the costumes worn was laughable in the extreme.

—The parties who have been breaking into and robbing freight cars at Livingston for some time met with a surprise a few days since when Marshal Hunter made a raid into their haunts and arrested a number of them. Three on their examining trials were held to circuit court and are now boarding with our jailer. Others are trembling in their boots and awaiting further developments.

—John Cope and Frank Pennington, of Brush Creek, while returning from Wildie a few evenings since, had a difficulty and agreed to give up their weapons and fight it out with their fists. After several rounds Pennington was floored and Cope was declared winner. One of the former's friends handed him Cope's pistol, when he turned upon Cope and fired, the ball passing through his arm.

—The strike of the laborers at the ballast quarry, which was inaugurated some three weeks since, has brought things to a complete standstill. Mr. Cook, the manager, after getting other men could not induce them to work on account of intimidation from the strikers. A number of the latter were arrested and tried before Judge Lair and acquitted. Mr. Cook immediately made arrangements for pulling up stakes and returning to Hopkinsville and abandoning the works. It is believed that a crusher will be put in shortly when 30 men will do the work of 150 heretofore employed.

—In an altercation near Wildie, this county, a few days since, Dr. Leslie Sowder received a dangerous cut in the head from a hatchet in the hands of Mr. Fleming Butner. The hatchet struck a square blow above and to the left of the forehead, splitting his skull and sinking into the head. The difficulty came up over the settlement of a board bill when the lie was passed and the hatchet was quickly brought into requisition. The wounded man is not thought to be fatally cut. Mr. Butner is an aged and respected farmer, and his part in the difficulty was a surprise. Dr. Sowder is a young physician recently located at Wildie and had boarded for a time with Mr. Butner.

—Our telegraph operator and Mr. W. L. DeGraff, a jeweler, have made application for patent on a recent joint invention in the way of a main line, or direct, telegraph sounder. The instrument takes the place of the "relay," doing away with local sounder and battery. It works splendidly; takes current from main battery, gives forth a wonderfully clear cut and pleasant sound. The space it occupies is no larger than an ordinary local sounder and its novel features and simplicity catches the operators at sight. The general manager of the Western Union telegraph company has written for a model of the instrument for their experts to test with a view of ascertaining its merits. The inventors are sanguine of realizing a fortune from their invention.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

CRAB ORCHARD, July 15.—I see many men who say they will vote for the new constitution because if it is not adopted the same delegates will go back to Frankfort and frame another constitution and stay there as they did before until every dollar is drawn out of the treasury. Upon this point I wish to say that if the present constitution is adopted by the people the present delegates can go back the first Monday in September to put it in operation, but if the constitution is rejected by the people at the August election then the present delegates are functus officio, and can not meet again to frame another constitution. If they could they could retain their positions forever and it would even be an inducement to the delegates to offer the people something they would not have in order to perpetuate the delegates in power.

The delegates were elected for a purpose, and when they frame a constitution and submit it to the people for adoption or rejection, and the people reject it the present delegates are dead in office and have no right to meet again to frame another constitution. Any other position would be supremely absurd.

I hire a carpenter to build me a house and I pay him for it, and the house don't suit me, he has no right, without another employment, to build the other house and make me pay for it as before. I have a perfect right to employ a new carpenter to do my work when not pleased with the job the present one has just put up. The sovereign people after they reject this constitution have a perfect right under the mode provided by the old constitution to elect a new set of delegates who will talk less and work more. What the people want is the old constitution slightly amended to keep up with the progress of the times. This and nothing more.

FARM AND TRADE ITEMS.

—Mark Hardin bought John Raines a sow and 8 pigs for $30.

—Highest market price paid for wheat. New Standford Roller Mills.

—For SALE.—Three-year-old sorrel horse and mare and colt. James P. Bush.

—Goldsmith Maid was driven a mile in 2:16 on the day she was 21 years old. —F. F. Sandridge sold to Owens, of Boyle, a car-load 1,500 pound cattle at 5 cents.

—The Indian Messiah craze cost the lives of 50 whites, 200 Indians and $2,000,000.

—It is estimated that the wool clip of America for 1891 will be 300,000,000 pounds.

—FOR SALE.—A high grade Jersey cow and heifer calf. A No. 1 milker. J. G. Carpenter.

—John Terhune, of Boyle, sold to a Cairo, Ill., party a pair of 3-year-old harness mares for $500.

—Squire J. S. Murphy rented the 40 acre pasture, advertised in last issue, near town, to J. E. Bruce two months for $100.

—In 21 years there were but three failures of the peach crop in the Muldraugh Hill section, and there has never been a failure of the grape crop in that region.

—Sales of 50 export cattle for October delivery at 5 cents, another at 5.30 and 40 of 1,559 pounds average, present delivery, at 5½, are reported in the Winchester Democrat.

—Prewitt & Lynn bought of J. H. Pleasants 24 lambs, averaging 82 lbs., at 5 cents; also 19, averaging 80 lbs., from W. M. Higgins at same price, and a lot from other parties at from 4 to 4½ cts.

—Good fat cattle are in demand in Cincinnati with 5½ for best shippers, other grades run down as low as 1½ cents; hogs are advancing with tops at 5.20; sheep are in only fair demand at 3 to 4½, lambs 4 to 6.20.

Peacemaker Johnson says in the Frankfort Capital:

In the language of the average political platform, "we view with alarm" the prospect of a war between the Standford Interior Journal and the Louisville Times. Should the battle-worn veteran of historic St. Asaph and the booted-and-spurred hero of the raging Bullskin declare hostilities, there will be many red pages added to our country's history, while the pension list will swell until its dimensions are bigger than the heads of some of the younger delegates to the late con. con. In the name of peace, the prosperity of our country, and the preservation of useful lives, we propose that these fierce warriors sheathe their inky weapons, meet upon common ground, with which they are both familiar—at Octave's—and with Sam Gaines and Laurie Blakely as umpires, fight till the last foam-crested mug is empty, and may the best man win. And blest if we know which of them it is.

We object to such an unequal contest, because we would stand more chance for success even in a foot-race with the long-legged, big-footed farmer from Bullskin.

LANCASTER, GARRARD COUNTY.

—Editor Marrs is showing his usual "hustle" in getting out the Record as a daily during the fair.

—Rev. J. C. Frank, of the Christian church, will preach at the Methodist church, where the union services will be held next Sunday night.

—It is understood that a special train will bring 30 or 40 couples from Middlesboro' to attend the hop this (Friday) evening. Our neighboring towns will all be largely represented.

—Tom Eason, of the railway mail service, is at his father's, Judge Eason's. Miss Lula Batson has gone to Martinsville, Ind. P. C. Orand has returned from Louisville. Mrs. J. T. McRoberts, nee Miss Lula Sandifer, is with Mrs. J. M. Logan. Hunter Irvine and wife, of Louisville, are spending a week with Mrs. E. W. Harris. Clyde Herring and Eb Higgins are here for the fair. R. L. Elkin, of Surveyor Collier's office, is visiting his mother. Miss Mary Annie Wilmore is visiting Mrs. John E. Storms. E. A. Pascoe, the confectioner, has gone to Nicholasville on business. During his absence W. R. Marrs has charge of store. Dr. T. J. Hood and J. M. Farrar went to Danville on Wednesday. Frank Dillon, Jr., of Crab Orchard, is in Lancaster. Miss Ora Wilmore, of Nicholasville, is visiting Miss Nell Marrs. Miss Rae Fox, of Eaton, Ohio, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Joseph. Misses Mattie and Sankee Hudson, of Louisville, are visiting Len Hudson. Miss Nannie Tucker, of Winchester, is visiting Miss Emma Hood.

HUBBLE.

—We had a good rain here Monday night and some wind, which demolished several hay and grain stacks. Mr. Benny Barker, of Danville, is visiting his uncle, Joe Swope, here. We are glad to note that Mrs. Millard Herrin is able to visit her mother and sister here. Underwood & Bourne have sold their threshing machine to Bob & George Huston for $500. They will run two machines this year, and Underwood & Bourne will retire. Miss Mary Kay is spending a few days with Mrs. George P. Bright. Mr. Lee Stone cut his hand very badly with an adz while at work on Rigney's house. G. A. Swinebroad and Joseph Swope are fixing some colts for the Lancaster fair. Colonel Underwood will have his mule colt ready to heat up some one who expects the sick tie. Jacob and Jim B. Robinson are expected home from Middlesboro' soon to spend the month of August in taking in the fairs. Many people went to Standford to hear both sides of the constitution argued, but so far as I have heard the vote will stand here as it did before, for the constitution by some majority. Mr. G. A. Swinebroad's sister, of Tennessee, is spending a few weeks with him now. D. N. Prewitt desires G. B. Barnett, Joe Swope and H. C. Walter to deliver their lambs here Monday, June 20th. Sam Engleman.

J. B. FOSTER.

What Does It Mean?

Proposing in the discussion of the new constitution to be candid, the following reflections concerning Sec. 187 will be taken not as an unqualified expression of an opinion, but rather as an enquiry as to its true intent and meaning. "The general assembly shall not impose taxes for the purposes of any county, city, town or other municipal corporation, but may by general laws confer on the proper authorities thereof, respectively, the power to assess and collect such taxes." The enquiry which first suggests itself is, what is meant or included by the phrase "for the purposes of any county?"

In undertaking an interpretation of a prohibitory clause of an organic or statutory law, it should be kept in mind that the evil prohibited is either one which has previously existed or which, but for the prohibition, would likely exist in the future. The convention should not be presumed to have indulged in the business of mere phrase making. Its work is supposed to have been a practical one, and to have been intended as a check upon practices or methods already prevailing or likely to prevail. Speaking with special reference to Sec. 187, it is difficult to imagine what existing evil it was intended to prohibit unless it be the present law by which jurors in the circuit courts are paid their mileage, tolls, ferriage and per diem out of the State treasury, and also the law by which pauper idiots are made, to a certain extent, State charges. In using the word evil, it is of course understood that the word is employed not in its moral sense, but in the sense that the thing is unwise or impolitic. It is true that if it was the purpose to throw the burden of such expenses upon the counties respectively, there is a want of aptness of phraseology; but the question still recurs, if that is not what is meant, then what is the meaning? Hitherto the general assembly has not undertaken to levy a tax to defray those expenses of a county which, according to the common understanding, belong to it rather than to the State at large; and in view of the fact that the people have ever opposed such legislation, the assumption that the legislature might in the future enact it is too violent to be indulged. For instance, the expense of building and keeping in repair county buildings, of taking care of paupers, of having roads worked, of paying the per diem of justices of the peace, of providing for the compensation of county judges and county attorneys, are all peculiarly expenses incurred and sustained for county purposes. There was no need that the legislature should be prohibited from imposing taxes for such purposes as these, because the legislature has never attempted such a thing. It is contrary to our settled policy, and should the proposed constitution be adopted the legislature, even if Sec. 187 had been omitted, would not impose taxes upon the whole State to defray these particular items of expense for a particular county.

For these reasons, it has occurred to us that the courts will possibly construe the section to mean that jurors, particularly in civil causes, shall be paid either by the counties in which the court is held or by the parties litigant. In a certain sense, a court is for the purposes of the State and in another for the purposes of a county. The State prosecutes crimes and misdemeanors and is properly chargeable with all expense incident to the prosecutions. But the civil branch of the court is, as a rule, for the trial of causes between citizens of the same county; and it may be that the expense of this would be regarded as coming within the purview of "county purposes." However this may be, it seems more nearly certain that all pauper idiots shall, in case the proposed constitution is adopted, be maintained at the expense of the counties respectively. Though they have generally been regarded as wards of the State, they are inhabitants and citizens of their respective counties, and if the State will not support them the counties must.

This would be a rather grievous burden upon many of those counties which yield the smaller revenues. The taxable value of their property is not great compared with the property of the more favored parts of the Commonwealth. With some show of reason, these counties argue that the lunatic asylums are located nearer the centers of wealth and that the blue grass region and of the richer cities are maintained by the State at these charitable institutions; that these institutions are generally crowded; that those who come first are first assigned to hospital and ward, and that on account of the remoteness of the poorer counties their own unfortunates are crowded out. They, therefore, contend that the State should pay a reasonable sum for the maintenance of their afflicted people at home.

But since the constitution offered to the people was not made in the interest of the poorer class of our citizens, it was folly to expect that such considerations would have had weight with the convention.

The Constitution on Sheriffs.

The delegates to the constitutional convention must have entertained a sentiment akin to contempt for the office of sheriff. It seems that there was a studied effort to minimize it and to involve the duration of the term in a maze of doubt. Having first failed, or refused, to enact a clause of eligibility, and either negligently or purposely having made a contest for the place a great free-for-all—open to all ages, sexes and citizenships—they then proceeded to enact two clauses respecting the duration of the term which are palpably conflicting and utterly impossible of reconciliation.

It cannot be that a body of gentlemen so virtuous and so wise had ever experienced, in their individual capacities, some slight inconveniences in dealing with this county executive, such for instance as might arise out of a proceeding on a forfeited bail bond or a bastardy warrant, but the fact remains that they touched this office, if not significantly, at least curiously.

We commend to the public the reading in consecutive order of the provisional clause of Sec. 104 of the constitution and the provisional clause of the 7th article of the schedule. The first is as follows: "Provided, the first election of sheriff under this constitution shall be held at the regular election in 1892, and the sheriffs then elected shall hold their offices for only two years." The schedule thus: "Provided, that at the general election in Nov. '92, there shall be elected in each county a sheriff, and in each justice's district a constable who shall hold office for two years and mark this copulative!—AND UNTIL THEIR SUCCESSORS ARE ELECTED AND QUALIFIED."

The question is which of these two paragraphs contains the governing law? Let us suppose a very probable case—one the like of which has often occurred in Kentucky: A. is elected sheriff in Nov. 1892. By due course of law his successor is to be chosen in Nov. 1894. But for some reason, we will assume, this successor fails to give his bond or otherwise qualify immediately upon the expiration of his predecessor's term of two years. Query: In such case does A. hold over until the successor does qualify or does he not? Sec. 102 declares explicitly, emphatically, unequivocally he shall not! The schedule, with equal clearness and with the force of an express command, declares he shall!

Now, can not a blind man see the confusion which is almost certain to result from this conflict? Confusion, do we say! It may be worse than that. Lives, liberty and property may depend on this question. A man is sentenced to be hung by a court. There is in law as absolute a necessity that the execution of a sentence shall be accomplished by a legally constituted executive officer as that the sentence itself shall be pronounced by a legally constituted judicial tribunal. Whatever is ordered to be done by the law must be done according to law. The mode, the means, the instruments which are prescribed are as much a part of the law as is the punishment which the law sanctions for a violation of its most sacred precepts. We cannot accept the principle of the sanctity of the law in one department and deny it in another. If one who has been a sheriff, but whose term has expired, hang a man pursuant to a sentence of court, he is clearly as guilty of inexcusable homicide as if he had done the hanging without an order of court. A murderer should be hung. But the tribunal which tries him and sentences him should be conducted and presided over by a judge, and not simply by one who imagines himself to be a judge. The like principle is true as to the person who executes the judgment.

If the ex-sheriff whose term has expired should levy an execution upon property and sell it, he would be guilty of trespass and the act of sale would not pass title to the purchaser. In a word, any order of court based upon a summons executed, an attachment or fi. fa. levied by him would be absolutely void. It is therefore of the very highest importance to the people as well as to the officer himself that there should be no mistake about these matters. That these two sections are in serious conflict can not be blinked out of sight. To a certain extent, they oppose each other as radically as do right and wrong; as obviously as do light and darkness; as certainly as do addition and subtraction. The matter of opposition is beside a grave one—one which reaches beyond mere grammatical construction, beyond the proprieties of rhetoric, beyond a simple question of expediency. It touches the vitals of the public and closely affects the absolute rights of each citizen. The courts will be powerless to afford any relief, for the question to be decided is not one of interpretation or construction. The language of each section is plain and unambiguous. There is no room for a double meaning. The case is one of irreconcilable conflict, and the utmost any judge could do if it should ever demand his adjudication would be to say which of the two sections, equal in force, he prefers. We would be obliged to the Louisville Post to publish them in parallel columns and tell us which it likes the better.

The Frankfort Capital says: "Delegate A. D. James, of Muhlenberg county, will vote against the new constitution, and Delegate Leslie T. Applegate, of Pendleton, will abstain from voting, since he cannot conscientiously vote for it. We expect to hear from some other manly men before the day of election."

—Judge Wasson, county judge of Fayette, is dead.

The Crowning Glory.

In the new constitution provided for the people of Kentucky, largely by the guileless Bennett Young—a very John Wanamaker of Kentucky politics—we find its 252nd section to provide as follows: "The General Assembly shall by law fix the minimum ages at which children may be employed in places injurious to morals." The "places injurious to morals" here referred to we can hardly characterize more plainly in a paper published for the fireside and read by pure girls and good women, but all will readily understand what is meant. Here before it has been supposed that the laws of the country should and did protect all children, above as well as under any fixed age, from the horror of employment for immoral purposes, but our new constitution, not content with stripping from the people the right to govern themselves through their legislature, nor with strapping to their shoulders an added burden of taxation, nor with unsettling and endangering every material interest in the State, must now strike at the foundations of good morals and common decency also. The section can have but one meaning and that meaning is clear. It delivers to what is left of our legislature the astounding mandate: "You shall determine the exact age under which children may not, and above which they may, be apprenticed to crime and prostitution." Presumably, the very young children, the unripe fruit only are to be protected from the spoiler's hand, while the older, and therefore the more likely to be tempted, are to be turned over by express constitutional sanction to the tender mercy of the Devil and his procurers.

Even in Kentucky we are beginning to have an idle and dissolute aristocracy of wealth, even here also we have in the slums of our towns and cities such an aristocracy's proletarian counterpart. This section, giving a constitutional guarantee to the unnamable business of the one and the unnamable pleasures of the other, will no doubt meet the approval of these two classes. How will it strike the great middle class of church-going, home-loving, plain people of Kentucky? They can say by their vote in August.

WILLING always to give even the devil his due, we are more than ready and ever anxious to render to a fellow mortal his just deserts. We therefore acknowledge to a complete change of heart towards the Hon. C. M. Clay, Jr. Taking certain alleged utterances of his and one-sided estimates of his character as indexes to him, we were led to believe that he was a self-opinionated, arrogant man, with a thorough contempt for those who did not agree with him, and consequently were highly prejudiced against the gentleman. That prejudice, we are glad to say, has vanished, for we found him on better acquaintance to be a modest, unassuming man, with more consideration for the views of another than almost any man we have met. He is of course thoroughly in earnest in his endorsement of the new constitution, but unlike the majority of smaller fry advocates of that instrument he does not think that every man who opposes it is a scoundrel and a bribe taker. In a word he is a born gentleman of true native ability, which a splendid education has developed and broadened. We are against his constitution for good and sufficient reasons, which we have been giving from time to time for a month and will continue to give till the vote is taken on it, but we are not against Mr. Clay personally or any other man on his side, who is a gentleman and can give reasons for his position, instead of only abuse and vilification of his opponents.

SENATOR KENNA, of West Virginia, is a man of the people and he says: "To my mind, there is no doubt who the democratic candidate will be. It is in air. All the signs point to Cleveland. Some democratic senators are opposed to him, but that is all there is to the opposition. It is confined to the politicians. The great mass of the people want Cleveland, and, in the end, their wishes must prevail. I believe that Cleveland is stronger to-day with the party than he was when he left the White House." The senator is right. The masses everywhere are for Cleveland, and Kentucky is for him too even if Senator Blackburn and several of the small bore congressmen are against him. And these had better get out of the way of the wagon.

Gov. HILL, of New York, who is also U. S. Senator-elect, is nothing if not a politician. He has with a practiced eye viewed the political horoscope and seeing that in no event will he be in, told a friend that he is satisfied at present with the honors he has and that friend has authorized the statement that the New York factions will harmonize and Cleveland receive the solid support of the State for president. It is Hill's only show for political preferment to see that this harmonization is full and complete.

EVERY time a change is made in the office of treasurer of the United States a count of all the money in the treasury has to be made. Sixty men after two months work have found that there are—in the vaults at Washington—$614,511,582.31, of which $175,950,000 was gold and silver coin, which fully tallies with former counts. Mr. Nebecker is now in full charge.

—Judge Wasson, county judge of Fayette, is dead.

The Wish is Father to the Thought.

A few not very astute persons, having observed that, in a controversy between us and the Courier-Journal more personal than public in its nature, we had refrained in our last issue from kicking an adversary when he was down, are expressing the opinion that we have weakened in our fight for the people against the new constitution. If these not very astute people will do us the honor of reading the INTERIOR JOURNAL of to-day, and of every day until the discussion is closed, they will perhaps discover their mistake.

A COWARDLY BLOW.—In a speech at Shepherdsville, Monday last, one Zachariah Phelps, a small Louisville lawyer, who represented that city's base ball nine in the Constitutional Convention, charged that Senator Carlisle had been bought by the lottery companies and paid for in a house and lot in Covington, and that Maj. Hale, the democratic nominee for State treasurer, did not favor the New Constitution because he wanted an opportunity to duplicate the exploits of Dick Tate under the old. The offense of these two eminent and honorable men consists of having modestly expressed the opinion that it would be a mistake for Kentucky to accept Patriot Bennett Young's Constitution. We shall see later on whether this is the best method of commending the instrument to a people who, in any kind of a fight, have always shown a marked preference for decency and fair play.

ON his return from the East Gov. Buckner was interviewed by a Courier-Journal reporter, when he declared that he has no reason to change his views as to the proposed new constitution. While he would like to vote, from courtesy, for the work of his fellow delegates, there is so much in it which he regards as bad that he has not been able to get his consent to approve it with his vote. The governor's course is to be commended. The adoption by the convention of so many things he opposed and opposed very sensibly, ought not to make it right with him as it seems to have done with other members of ability who were forced to take back seats. Gov. Knott's position seems to be identical with Gov. Buckner's. At any rate he is making no effort to have the code of absurd statutes saddled upon the people as a constitution.

Gov. J. B. McCREARY, who was in Stanford Wednesday, said that nothing was more certain than the nomination of Cleveland in 1892. In fact he is confident that no other name will be presented nor any other thought of by that time. The silver question will have been settled by the next congress and the tariff will again be the paramount issue, as it should be. Some of the politicians are against Cleveland, but the people all over the country demand his renomination and intend that he shall be our next standard bearer. The governor is satisfied that Gov. Hill is politician enough to see the way the wind is blowing and will come out in favor of Cleveland.

Gov. CAMPBELL was renominated by the Ohio democrats on the first ballot, receiving 500 of the 700 votes, and the nomination was afterwards made unanimous. The only serious opposition to him was in Hamilton county and the delegates from there hissed the nomination. The platform indorses Campbell's administration, approves the secret ballot, denounces the McKinley tariff bill, favors an income tax, demands the free coinage of silver, denounces the billion-dollar congress and the force bill, favors liberal pensions, and extends sympathy to the persecuted Jews in Europe. It is feared that there is enough opposition to Campbell in his party to endanger his election.

BARBOURVILLE, KNOX COUNTY.

—The Knox County Fair Association will give its first exhibition August 3 and 4 at this place.

—Mr. Chas. W. Shively, of this place, went to Stanford Monday to hear the constitutional discussion between Hon. John S. Rhea and Hon. Cassius M. Clay.

—Hon. John H. Wilson has seven appointments in the counties of Wayne, Clinton, Russell, Adair and Metcalf to speak in behalf of the republican State ticket and in opposition to the proposed new constitution.

—A discussion on the subject of the new constitution took place at the courthouse here Monday between Col. R. L. Ewell, the "Little Red Hog," of Laurel, for and Hon. John H. Wilson, of this place, against it. Mr. Ewell occupied an hour and a half, taking up most of his time telling how all the opposition comes from monopolies, corporations and railroads and insinuated that Judge Boyd, Col. Clark and Congressman Wilson, all of whom oppose it, were no exceptions to the rule. At the close of Ewell's speech, Mr. Wilson said he thought it his duty to resent those infamous charges, although he was confident the people did not believe them. Mr. Wilson certainly had the crowd with him, if applause tells anything.

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

—Mr. and Mrs. Abram Simpson, of London, O., have been married 70 years. —Mr. James Croucher and Miss Nan-nie Tankersley, both from near Preachersville, came to town Wednesday and were united in marriage by Judge Var-non.

The Garrard people will as usual put the big pot into the little one at their fair, which will be held to-day and tomorrow. Lincoln county will see them do it and be there in large numbers.

THE county court, under the new law, has transferred Squire M. C. Portman's liquor license to Joseph Coffey. W. R. Cress was appointed administrator of Henry Finchbaugh and Jos. Coffey (not our Joe) of Peter Cartwright Butts.

His friends at Rowland received a telegram Tuesday that Lee Watts, formerly of that place had been fearfully hurt in a wreck near Paducah. The telegram stated that besides numerous other injuries Mr. Watts had an arm literally crushed.

JUDGE T. L. SHELTON came to town Tuesday afternoon in a buggy which had just been repaired. Driving into Bruce's alley he left his horse untied, and the usual results followed,—the horse became frightened, and running up to Main street he struck a curbing and upset the buggy, considerably damaging that vehicle, while the animal was somewhat disfigured.

THE directors of the new Stanford Roller Mills met Wednesday and elected Mr. J. W. Hayden president in the place of Mr. T. J. Foster, who did not desire to hold the office longer, and re-elected Dr. J. K. Vanarsdale secretary, treasurer and superintendent. By the way the trade spoken of in this paper several issues ago is off. Dr. S. G. Hocker will do the traveling for mill.

MARIA HELM, a negress, swore out a warrant against her step-mother, Patsy Helm, and that individual was brought before Judge Varnon Wednesday on the charge of having assaulted her step-daughter last Sunday night while she was passing through Mr. John Miller's woods. The evidence showed that one was about as much in fault as the other, but it having been proved that Patsy struck the first lick, she was fined $3 and costs.

THE Pine Mountain Coal & Iron Co., Pineville, has sold its property to a Minneapolis syndicate for an alleged consideration of $1,300,000. The development will proceed at once. Electricity will be put in for lighting, hauling and mining coal, and every effort made to get the product to market in the best shape and least time. The plant comprises a large coal and coke plant, and a contract, it is said, has just been made with the King Furnace Company, Rockdale, Tenn., for 100 car-loads of coke daily.

THE stockholders of the Cumberland Valley Land Co. met in annual session here Wednesday and elected the following directors: Vincent Boreing, Robert Boyd, James W. Fox, J. S. Hocker, W. G. Welch, Gov. J. B. McCreary, R. B. Whitridge, John W. Fox, Jr., and W. P. Walton, who in turn re-elected Judge Boreing president, Mr. Hocker secretary and chose J. A. Craft vice-president.

Numerous propositions for the purchase of the lands, some 30,000 acres lying in Harlan county and rich minerals and timber, were considered and much other business transacted.

THE hen roost of Mr. M. Pence was relieved of 20 chickens Tuesday night.

HON. W. H. MILLER is advertised to speak at Hustonville, Aug. 1, at 1 P. M., for the new constitution.

FOR SALE.—A six-pocket Pool-Table and 1 set of Bar Fixtures, nice walnut, in first-class condition. Will sell cheap. Address G. D. McCollum, Junction City, Ky.

THE young people enjoyed a delightful hop at the Portman House Wednesday evening, when Miss Ella May Saunders proved herself a most charming hostess.

THERE was a sparring match between the police judge of Crab Orchard and another distinguished gentleman of the same town, Tuesday, over some law matter, but friends interposed before any damage was done and peace reigned again supreme.

HON. F. F. BOBBITT asks us to say that he will speak at Gum Sulphur to-morrow, July 18, and at Mt. Vernon on the 4th Monday and will divide time with any foe man worthy of his steel, such as Barnum, Clay, Young or Blackburn.

"I'll be —," said John Miller to Peter Carter Monday after hearing his speech, "if that man Rhea couldn't bust up the multiplication table." "I don't know so much about that," said Mr. Carter, "but I know he 'busted up' your men Clay and Smith pretty badly." And that seems to have been the verdict of a large majority of the crowd.

ATTENTION is called again to the fact that special trains will be run each day of the Richmond Fair, beginning next Tuesday, from Junction City and London, leaving the former at 7:20 A. M., Stanford 7:41, and arriving at the fair grounds at about 9 o'clock. The London train leaves at 7:15 A. M. and stops at all stations, reaching Richmond also at 9.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.—Dave and Albert Givens, colored work hands on a farm near McKinney, were struck by lightning Tuesday afternoon. They were hauling wheat when the flash came and both of them were badly stunned. A couple of fine mules hitched to the wagon they were in, were killed outright. It has only been a few months since they had a brother killed by lightning.

ON account of several postponements, the directors of the Lincoln County Building & Loan Association did not meet till Tuesday last when a dividend of 3 per cent. was declared. Mr. H. C. Farris was elected a director in the place of Mr. J. A. Carpenter, who gave up his position because of his ill health. The association has now over $25,000 loaned out and there is a pressing demand for more. J. H. Baughman was re-elected secretary.

TO THE PEN.—Sheriff James W. Moren, of Laurel, stopped here yesterday and took Wils Jennings, who has been confined here for safe-keeping, to Frankfort to serve a life sentence. He received the above sentence at the Laurel circuit court, on a charge of venue, for conspiracy in the murder of John S. Bailey, George Turner and Bony Turner. There are numerous other cases against him, but he will not have an opportunity of paying the penalty for them.

CHURCH AFFAIRS.

—Rev. W. Y. Sheppard will hold a service at the Methodist church next Sunday night, beginning at 8 o'clock.

—Rev. T. J. Godbey announces that Rev. J. O. A. Vaughn, of Richmond, will assist him in a protracted meeting at the Methodist church, beginning next Monday night at 8 o'clock. Services thereafter will be held at 10 A. M. and 8 P. M. daily.

CRAB ORCHARD.

—C. O. has night mails now.

—There are about 80 guests at C. O. Springs.

—Mr. W. F. Abrams arrived Wednesday from Knoxville with a car-load of Tennessee sheep.

—It was W. A. Carson instead of John Carson who was elected secretary and treasurer of the Christian Sunday school.

—No. 26, the north-bound express, killed a good milk cow for S. Vanderpool Monday night. It was appraised at $35.

—The case against young Kennedy, charged with assaulting Mrs. Adams, has been compromised and dismissed at the solicitation of the plaintiff.

—Mr. John T. Higgins has been employed as private policeman at the springs this season, and W. D. Hocker, of Hustonville, has charge of the telegraph department in the hotel office.

—The foxes have holes and the birds of the air have nests, but where shall a young man find rest whose steps are dogged by a woman with a ruinous tongue? But we are flinty, and can in the language of Tennyson cry, "Break, break, break! on the cold, gray stone, O sea!"

—Marion Noe, one of the two men who murdered James Turner and Mike Dwyer, near Cumberland Gap the 26th of May as they lay asleep in the tent of their concubines, an account of which you gave at the time, was captured by R. L. and H. M. Turner in the Glades Tuesday.

—Said a prominent citizen here after his return from hearing John Rhea: "He is the finest orator I ever heard. Were I as rich as Vanderbilt, I would give one hundred millions to be able to make a speech as he can." But alas and alack! Such gifts, good friend, are above price, and can not be had for love nor money.

—While a trivial case was on trial in the police court here Tuesday, a little dispute arose between the judge and city-attorney, and in the twinkling of an eye the two plucky officials were acting Sullivan and Kilrain after the most approved tactics. Nobody was hurt, and like the true gentlemen and chivalrous Kentuckians that they are, they made friends shortly afterwards and drowned their ire (as Burns puts it) "in a cup of generous juice."

—During the first six months of the year, there have been 1,728 miles of main track laid in 33 of the States and Territories on 139 roads, says the Railway Age.

—The jury in the Tate security case returned in favor of the defendants, which means that the State will be out $50,000 unless the court of appeals reverses.

—The family of J. H. Cornelius, a farmer, near Russellville, consisting of four persons, was poisoned at the supper table Monday. One is dead and the others can not recover.

—Washington county, Ky., has a plague of honey bees. They have taken possession of houses, barns and churches. The attic of the court-house at Springfield is full of the industrious little workers. They got into Colonel Thomas Grundy's brick residence through a crack and the family have vacated.

NEWSY NOTES.
—Sandusky, O., had a $170,000 fire Wednesday.
—Salton Lake is still rising, and now covers 2,000 square miles.
—Aquila Jones, Sr., a prominent political of Indiana, is dead.
—The Kentucky Union railroad Wednesday opened its extension to Jackson.
—At Traveler's Rest, in Owsley county, John Bartner was shot and mortally wounded by Jacob Lynch.
—Mrs. Kate Williams, of Houston, Tex., is the proud mother of a one-day-old baby with a full set of teeth.
—Col. Bennett Young has at last agreed to meet John S. Rhea on the stump to argue the new constitution.
—A disease like the Texas fever has broken out among the cattle of Judge Shaw at Independence, and many have died.
—There are 45,000 oil wells in the United States, representing a capital of $120,000,000, with an output of 130,000 barrels per day.
—Allie VanMeter was thrown from a young horse at Winchester and his head striking an electric light post, he was instantly killed.
—Senator Peffer, of Kansas, is making some speeches in Kentucky for the people's party, but they are so disappointing that they make no votes.
—Boston's new prohibition law went into effect July 1. It allows a man two drunks per year for which he can not be sentenced, but upon the third offense he goes up for one year.
—At Lyons, Ia., during Forepaugh's circus performance, William Hanlon, one of the famous Hanlon brothers, was killed by the breaking of a trapeze bar, thrown 30 feet to the ground and instantly killed.
—The Brown Light Infantry, named in honor of Col. John Young Brown, has been organized at Lexington with 40 members. Mr. J. C. Bryant was chosen captain, Bishop Clay first lieutenant and Thos. Davidson second lieutenant.
—The Chesapeake & Ohio railroad has closed five-year contracts with C. Furness, one of the largest steamship owners in England, for three regular lines of steamers from Newport News, Va., to Liverpool, London and Glasgow, and also for occasional steamers to Havre and Antwerp.

Colored Statistics Again.
The latest one of President Francis A.
Walker's admirable articles on the census is published in The Forum, and deals with the somewhat knotty problem of the colored population. To begin, it is to be recalled that the colored census of 1870 was defective, and that a large number of blacks were not included in the count at all. The deficiency was corrected in 1880, and the blacks who had been left out were counted, together with their natural increase. This made the colored race in the Union assume abnormally great proportions. There was a cry of alarm lest the negro should outstrip the white in increase and take the country. General Walker quotes from a political campaign speech made two years ago in which the statement was made that the negroes of America would be in a comparatively short time amount to 50,000,000.
They will never reach that number, according to General Walker. They are an anomaly and an artificial product in this country in the first place. They were brought here by force; they were taken here and there by their masters to climates in every way unsuited to them, and they were forced into unnatural conditions of many kinds by slavery.
Now that slavery has ceased, it is found that the negro seems naturally to be sliding down into the lower gulf region as the country most like his own and the land where he thrives best. This has made an increase of the negro population in the lowland cotton belt which is not sustained elsewhere.
It is in the lowland cotton belt that General Walker predicts the increase of the negro will take place, if at all. And it will never assume, cannot assume the proportions predicted by alarmists. If the birth rate of the black race is high, the death rate is correspondingly so, to such an extent that the real increase of this race is not large. In 1790 the blacks constituted nearly one-fifth of the total population of the Union. In 1840 they were only one-sixth, in 1880 they were one-seventh, while in 1890 they are less than one-eighth. In the century beginning with 1790 the white race has increased sixteenfold, the black only tenfold. There are at present about 7,500,- 000 persons with African blood in their veins in this country.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF STANFORD, KY.
Capital Stock.....$200,000
Surplus.....16,500
Attention of the public is invited to the fact that this is the only National Bank in Stanford. Under the provisions of the National Bank Act, depositors are secured not only by the capital stock, but by the stockholders' liability for an amount equal to the stock, so that depositors in this institution are secured by a fund of $400,000.
Five sworn statements of the condition of the bank are made each year to the United States government and its assets are examined at stated times by government agents, thus securing additional and perfect safety to depositors.
This institution, originally established as the Deposit Bank of Stanford in 1858, then re-organized as the National Bank of Stanford in 1863 and re-organized as the First National Bank of Stanford in 1882, has had practically an uninterrupted existence of 33 years. It is better supplied with facilities for transacting business promptly and liberally than ever before in its long and honorable career. Accounts of corporations, fiduciaries, firms and individuals respectfully solicited.
The Directory of this Bank is composed of
T. J. Foster, of Stanford;
Forester Red, Lincoln county;
J. W. Hayden, Stanford;
S. H. Baughman, Lincoln;
M. J. Miller, Mt. Vernon;
S. T. Harris, Lincoln;
J. S. Hocker, Stanford;
G. A. Lackey, Lincoln;
T. P. Hill, Stanford;
W. G. Welch, Stanford.
W. P. Tate, Stanford.
